

Cheryl Hudson Wright is the Attorney Development Manager at Bingham McCutchen LLP where she previously served as a Counsel in the Real Estate Group. As an attorney, Cheryl represented clients in all matters relating to real estate and real estate finance, including acquisitions and sales, construction and development projects, lending, leases, and public and private offerings of securities. Cheryl also represented developers of residential, commercial and large-scale multi-use projects in matters such as development agreements, zoning, ground leases and financings.

Cheryl also has experience representing financial institutions, institutional investors and private equity groups in connection with loan participations and mezzanine finance transactions, and telephone, mobile communications and satellite companies in administrative, legislative and transactional matters involving communications issues.

In her current role as Attorney Development Manager, Cheryl is involved in all aspects of attorney career and professional development.

ADMISSIONS

- Admitted to practice in the District of Columbia, Georgia and North Carolina

EDUCATION

- Harvard Law School, Juris Doctor, 1997
- Howard University, Bachelor of Arts, magna cum laude, 1994